Welcome to UK Hole in One

Hole in one competitions have become a popular addition to golf days since the rules of golf were relaxed. An amateur golfer can now win a significant prize without losing their amateur status and are no longer limited by the £500 rule in respect of hole in one competitions, providing that it is during a round of golf and incidental to that round. (See Rule3-2b)

Our policy is designed to be easily administered by the event organiser and to simplify the process of running a competition, safe in the knowledge that it is backed by a reliable insurance policy.

Quotations can be easily obtained online and we have done our best to make sure the process is as simple as possible. When you purchase a policy online your policy pack will also include directions to green staff in respect of setting up the hole for the designated distance, instructions for witnesses on the major prize hole and guidance for players in the event. All of these documents are available for you to print in order to make administering your golf day easier.

How a hole in one competition works with UK Hole in One Ltd

Decide on your main prize and its value i.e. a car, boat, luxury holiday or prize money.

Decide if you wish to give ancillary prizes on other par 3s.

Select a suitable par 3 golf hole for the main prize. This must play a minimum of 150 yards from the men's tees and a minimum of 135 yards from the ladies' tees.

Purchase our insurance policy online to cover the cost of providing the prize if a participating player achieves a hole in one. The premium is based on the number of participants, the distance they are playing from and the value of the main prize. If these details change you must notify us before the event.

Use the form we provide to instruct the golf club how to set up the hole designated for the major prize.

Select a suitable witness / witnesses for the main prize hole. We will supply you with instructions for them on the day. (You do not need a witness on ancillary prize holes.)

Ensure your participating players are playing in teams of three or four and issue them with the hole in one competition instructions we supply.

If you have selected a car for your main prize hole you may be able to persuade a local supplier to provide a sample vehicle in exchange for advertising their dealership. You should remember to ask them to ensure the vehicle is insured by them.

In the event of a lucky participating player achieving a hole in one on an insured hole then contact us and we will arrange the claim process.
